Paratroopers Move POW's On Koje Isle

Kill 32 Reds, One American In Bloody Fight

Koje Island, Korea, Tuesday, June 10 —(AP)—American paratroopers of the "Angels from Hell" combat team emptied compound 76 of its 6,000 fanatical North Korean prisoners of war today in 2½ hours of bloody fighting.

An unofficial count listed 32 Reds killed and 85 wounded.

One American soldier was killed and 13 were wounded in the wildest fighting yet on this hate-filled island holding some 80,000 Chinese and Korean prisoners.

Eyewitnesses said the American was killed when his own grenade fell short and exploded.

The paratroopers were ordered to clear out another compound, No. 78, at noon (10 p.m., CST Monday) if the Reds there refuse to move out quietly.

The fighting broke out at 6 a.m. (3 p.m., CST, Monday) when the paratroopers charged into compound 76 to move the defiant prisoners of war to new smaller unit quarters.

The powers had been given 15 minutes to assemble for the transfer.

Instead they swarmed into hastily dug trenches and started fighting with spears and crude swords.

The prisoners set fire to tents and buildings in the compounds as two battalions of the 18th Airborne Regimental combat team crashed into the compound.

The paratroopers hurled concussion grenades and tear gas rockets as they swept down on the barricades with bare bayonets.

The concussion grenades exploded in gasoline stores the prisoners had hoarded for the battle.

The Americans chopped holes through the walls then they tossed in the concussion grenades among the tightly packed prisoners.

The prisoners struck back with crude swords and spears forged in the compound blacksmith shops.

The fighting in the trenches was a wild melee.

Use Bayonets
The Americans leaped into ditches among the prisoners. They jammed bayonets into those who resisted.

Reports from within the compound said the Red leaders themselves had killed some prisoners who refused to stand against the charging Americans.

The compound was littered with groaning wounded. Dead were strewn over the field.

The paratroopers set up first aid stations inside the compound.

Medical corpsmen rushed wounded Americans and POWs to doctors who gave first aid.

The prisoners were taken by surprise. They had been set for a charge through the compound's main gate. Instead, the paratroopers tore through the barbed wire fences on the sides of the camp.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, 50th command sent to the camp less than a month ago to restore Allied control inside of its 17 unyielding prisoner compounds, directed today's operation from a command post overlooking the compound.

Showdown Against Toughest
It was the showdown against the toughest of all Red POW compounds — one that previously had shown fiery defiance against every Allied order.

The heaviest fighting lasted 42 minutes. Prisoners in two nearby compounds watched the fighting. They were scheduled to be moved next.

Boatner said he did not plan to isolate the Red leaders immediately but would segregate them later.

Boatner at 5:45 a.m. delivered an ultimatum to the compound leader, North Korean Col. Lee Hak Koo, in person at compound 74, across the road from 76.

"This is a legal order for you to prepare the prisoners of war in compound 76 to move out into the newly constructed compounds at 6 a.m. today," Boatner told him.

"All everybody in 76 must move. Over my orders and no one will be hurt here. I will hold you and the leaders of compound 76 personally responsible for any bloodshed that results if there is disobedience to this order."

The Red colonel then went into compound 76.
But Boatner's orders were disregarded.
Instead, the defiant Reds manned their trenches and fought back when the paratroopers moved in.

Compromise Foreign Aid Bill Passes

Washington, June 9 —(AP)—The Senate passed a $6,447,730,750 foreign aid bill today and sent it to the White House for President Truman's signature.

The big mutual security program was authorized by a rollcall vote of 59 to 11. Ten Republicans and one Democrat—Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina—voted no.

A compromise of two different bills passed previously by the Senate and House, the new legislation authorizes $4,598,000,000 in direct military aid to nations lined up with the United States against Communist aggression and threats of aggression.

This is aid in the form of aircraft, tanks, guns and other weapons of war.

It also authorizes $1,805,000,000 in economic assistance to countries cooperating in the mutual security program. Bills actually appropriating the money for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be offered later this session.

Congress trimmed about $1,450,000,000 out of the administration's appropriation before approving it. The House passed the compromise bill by a 230 to 115 vote last week.

Sen. Kem (R-Mo) lost a last minute fight to have the bill sent back to the Senate-House conference committee for restoration of his amendment denying aid to any nation which knowingly permits strategic materials to be exported to Russia or her satellites.

Opponents of the amendment argued it was too inflexible and might cost the United States some of its western European allies.

However, Kem said key goods still were going to Russia and her satellites, and probably finding their way into the Korean war.

He said Britain, for instance, still was sending large quantities of rubber to Russia.

The mutual security act is one of the "must" bills on Congress' list before hoped-for adjournment in a few weeks.

Trial Tests Show SS United States A Speedy Liner

Aboard the SS United States at Sea, June 9 —(AP)—The giant superliner United States sliced through the waters of the Atlantic today in performance trials her builders are sure will rate her as the fastest passenger vessel afloat.

The $70,000,000 soon-to-be crowned queen of the U.S. Merchant Marine, gradually unleashed her 165,000-horsepower at the start of an eight-hour full-power run 150 miles east of Cape Henry, Va.

The massive four propellers thrust through the calm seas at a speed of more than 30 knots, but there was surprisingly little wake churned up by the 53,290-ton vessel. Her graceful 990-foot hull is so designed that she slips through the sea with a minimum of disturbance.

It was the second trial of the United States at a sustained speed run by the builders before she is turned over to the United States Lines to be put in operation in Atlantic passenger service this summer.

She may seek to capture the 31.69 knot speed record Britain's Queen Mary set in 1938 on an Atlantic crossing.

The first time out last month, this graceful ship bettered 32 knots—about 35 land miles an hour—and showed she hadn't turned up top speed. A couple of reduction gears showed a tendency to overheat, so the full speed was deferred until the shipyard, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, could remedy the trouble.

The actual top speed of the United States, which has been built for quick conversion into a troop transport, should the necessity arise, probably won't be pinpointed for security reasons.

Gunmen Holdup, Rob Springfield Supermarket
Springfield, Ill., June 9 —(AP)—Two young men carrying guns held up an A&P supermarket today and escaped with several thousand dollars. About a hundred people were in the store at the time.

Police said the robbers forced Miss Ruth Miller, bookkeeper, and store manager R. J. Hoechst to give them money from the store's cash boxes.

Hoechst estimated the amount was at least $2,000. He said the figure might be as high as $8,000 but that he couldn't be sure of the amount until he had made an audit.

Taft, Ike Forces Vie For Control Of Convention

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Political Reporter

Taft and Eisenhower forces fight it out today (Tuesday) over control of the Republican national convention machinery and the selection of its keynote address.

MacArthur seemed likely to draw the speaking assignment.

Except for occasional oratory and hand-shaking sorties, Democrats for the most part were in a pre-convention lull. The next big event is a state convention Friday at which Connecticut Democrats are expected to put 16 favorite-son votes in the pocket of Sen. Brien McMahon.

The Republican showdown comes at a meeting in Chicago of the committee making arrangements and picking the officials for the party convention to be held there starting July 7.

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said the committee would be asked to pick MacArthur to give the Republican-praising, Democrat-baiting rallying speech that is supposed to set the tone of the convention and campaign.

Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were resisting MacArthur for keynoter on grounds the role should go to somebody with a more neutral approach to rival candidates. But they admitted Taft people outnumbered them on the arrangements committee and were in a position to have things pretty much their own way.

The temporary chairman's job is important because it involves recognizing delegates for speeches and motions, and ruling on the temporary seating of disputed delegates who might be in a position to vote on seating themselves permanently.

Eisenhower is in the middle of a hectic tour of 15 eastern delegates to the national convention. Yesterday it was the ones from New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Delaware.

New Hampshire's 14 delegates and 14 alternates, pledged to Eisenhower, said they had paid their own way to New York to confer with the general.

Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, who saw Eisenhower Sunday, issued invitations to Pennsylvania's 70 delegates and 70 alternates to meet the general at the latter's farm near Gettysburg on Saturday.

Fine is not yet committed to any presidential candidate. The Pennsylvania delegates plan to meet later with Taft.

As of now, with 604 votes needed to sew up the nomination, the Associated Press tabulation of delegates whose positions are known or conceded gives 462 to Taft and 390 to Eisenhower. Gov. Earl Warren of California trails in third place with 76. Taft claims 588.

In the Democratic race, with 613 votes needed to nominate, a run-down shows Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee far in front with 246. Back of him are Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia with 86 and Mutual Security Administrator W. Averell Harriman with 85.

Farm Leaders Boost Russell For President

Washington, June 9 —(AP)—A committee of farm leaders from 18 states to boost Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia for the Democratic presidential nomination was announced here today.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, national chairman of the Russell-for-President campaign, said the group would form an advisory committee that will be increased later.

For 19 years Russell has handled the annual agriculture appropriation in the Senate.

Johnson listed the Illinois "Russell-for-President" representative as Henry J. White, Somanauk.

Supreme Court Starts Summer Recess

Washington, June 9 —(AP)—The Supreme Court wound up its current term today by forestalling a potentially historic decision on segregation of white and Negro children in public schools.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina has said if his state should lose the right to segregate children, South Carolina will abandon its public school system.

Georgia, Virginia and Alabama have taken steps that could lead to dropping public schools in favor of private schools if segregation is outlawed.

The Supreme Court said today it will hear, after it meets again next Oct. 6, arguments on two appeals by Negro parents who say their children are stigmatized as inferior by having to attend all-Negro schools. The cases originated in Topeka, Kan., and Clarendon county, S.C.

Other actions of its final opinion day before recess, the high court included:

1. Said the railway labor act bars union from taking jobs from Negro workers to give them to white workers. The federal courts must issue injunctions, the 6-3 Supreme Court ruling said, "to protect those threatened with such an unlawful use of power" by a union.

2. Ordered dismissed a case in which three big unions questioned validity of the government's 1950 seizure of the railroads to avert a strike. The case was dismissed as moot—no longer alive—since the labor dispute that brought about the seizure has been settled and the railroads returned to private ownership. The government seized the railroads under a special emergency law.

NEW IKE BUTTON—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower smiles as he observes special campaign button worn by Mrs. Eisenhower in front of their residence at Columbia University. The button, with a new twist on regular Eisenhower slogans, says, "Ike likes me."

British Lift Blockade Of Radio Berlin

Berlin, June 9 —(AP)—The British tonight announced the lifting of a seven-day armed blockade of Russia's Radio Berlin headquarters.

Barbed wire barricades surrounding the station, which is located deep in West Berlin, were ordered taken down at midnight.

Western commandants in Berlin approved the British decision at an urgent meeting this afternoon. The decision, which came on the heels of some minor Soviet gestures of reconciliation, disappointed anti-Communist Germans who had hoped the Russians would be expelled permanently from the station.

But the western commandants took the view that the blockade was a weapon that might boomerang dangerously if continued much longer. They agreed the blockade was a limited operation which had achieved most of its aims in easing Soviet pressure on the border of Berlin, and could be used again in the future if the situation worsened.

Maj. Gen. C. F. C. Coleman, the British commandant, ordered the Royal Scots infantrymen and military police to remove the barbed wire which had sealed off the 750-room Soviet "island" in West Berlin since early last Tuesday.

He notified Soviet political chief Sergei Dengin of his order, which leaves the Soviet tommygun detachment guarding Radio Berlin free to leave or re-enter it through West Berlin any time they choose.

In parleys with the Communist propagandists inside, the British extended polite invitations to leave but did not threaten.

Ozark Preacher Dies; Fasted Fifty-One Days

Cherryville, Mo., June 9 —(AP)—The fast of the Ozark preacher ended in death today 51 days after he had vowed self-denial until his prayers for the "perfect will of God" were answered.

The Rev. J. J. Ivie died in the early morning hours, his family at his bedside in their modest home in this little village whose 36 townships people wondered but respected his act as a personal matter.

The 57-year-old minister of the Assembly of God church had become so weak he could utter no more than a few words, but his wife, an ordained minister herself, said he remained conscious to the last.

Mrs. Ivie, near exhaustion herself by the long ordeal, said her husband was too weak to talk just before death.

Once late yesterday she had noticed his lips were parched. As she moistened them, he removed her hand and wiped them dry.

"No, no medicine," he said, apparently mistaking the water for medicine.

He had given his family a statement to protect them against possible legal action should he die. Mrs. Ivie said he also had given instructions no physician was to be allowed into the home under any circumstances.

Today Dr. William H. Robey, an osteopath of nearby Steelville, wrote "self-inflicted starvation" on the death certificate and said no inquiry would be necessary.

In two recordings he made since announcing his fast, the preacher had fasted hard to understand but most of them called it a personal matter, including the officials of the county.

Reds Taunt Allies For Recess In Truce Talks

Munsan, Korea, Tuesday, June 10 —(AP)—The Red high command in a letter to Gen. Mark Clark Monday taunted the Allies for declaring a recess in the Korean truce talks now entering their 11th month.

Contents of the letter were broadcast by the Peiping radio early today. It was signed by Gen. Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, and Chinese Gen. Pen Teh-Huai.

"If you wish to break up the talks by this tactic, you should do it officially and take full responsibility for it," said the broadcast. "You should know that what you cannot get on the battlefield you cannot get at the conference site."

Red liaison officers at Panmunjom this morning demanded that the full-dress sessions be resumed today at the regular time. The U.N. command ignored the request.

The Communists in turn refused to reply when Marine Col. James C. Murray asked if the full Red delegation would be on hand for resumption of talks Wednesday.

An Allied spokesman at the base camp here said the U.N. command "has no statement to make" regarding today's bloody battles between U.S. paratroopers and defiant Red prisoners on Kojido Island. The Reds are expected to make full propaganda use of the fighting.

The United Nations command declared a three-day recess Saturday after listening repeatedly to Communist harangues charging mistreatment of Red prisoners. The Reds didn't agree to the recess.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied delegate, told the Reds that unless they would offer specific proposals in writing for breaking the deadlock, the U.N. team would not return to Panmunjom until 11 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m., CST, Tuesday).

Communist liaison officers showed up at Panmunjom Sunday and demanded an immediate resumption of the talks. An Allied liaison officer said nothing doing.

The letter rallied against Allied insistence on refusing to return any prisoner to Red rule who said he would resist being returned. The Allies said only 70,000 of some 169,000 military and civilian internees want to be returned.

Headquarters said Clark's reply would be made public when it is delivered to the Communists, presumably at Panmunjom Wednesday.

CENTRALIA CYCLIST KILLED
New Minden, Ill., June 9 —(AP)—A Centralia motorcyclist was killed early today in a collision between his vehicle and an automobile. He was John Henry Romines, 43.

Steel Peace Talks End, 'Complete Deadlock'

Ease Real Estate Controls, Lower Down Payments

Washington, June 9 —(AP)—The government relaxed real estate credit controls today to permit lower down payments on new houses.

The biggest concessions were made for houses costing less than $7,000 or more than $25,000.

Changes in down payments for dwellings in the $8,000 to $15,000 bracket were called very disappointing, however, by a big group of construction men, the National Association of Home Builders.

The Federal Reserve Board announced that, starting Wednesday, down payment requirements will be lowered as follows:

On housing costing $7,000 or less, from 10 per cent to 5 per cent. Thus the amount of cash down on a $7,000 house will drop from $700 to $350.

On houses costing $25,000 or more, from 50 per cent to 40 per cent. On a $25,000 house, that's a drop from $12,500 to $10,000.

On houses costing from $8,000 to $15,000, from the present rising scale of 15 to 28 per cent to a new range of 11.9 to 24.7 per cent. For a $12,000 house, the cut will be from $2,400 down to $2,350. The builders' association called this $50 reduction "insignificant."

Ex-servicemen able to buy with a mortgage guaranteed by the Veterans Administration (VA) will continue to get better terms under the veterans' preference Congress has written into law.

For veterans, no down-payment at all will be required after tomorrow for houses costing under $7,000, although closing costs, an item of $100 to $200 for title search, registration fees and so on, must be paid in cash. A 4 per cent down payment has been required.

Veterans will be able to get by with a down payment of 35 per cent, against the old 45 per cent, on $25,000 up houses they can buy with VA mortgage aid. On houses costing $8,000 to $15,000, vets' down payments will be 4.8 to 17 per cent against 6 to 23 per cent before.

Time limits for paying off mortgages will remain the same: 25 years for houses valued under $12,000, and 20 years for higher priced property. Veterans, however, can have up to 30 years if the VA finds a shorter period would cause them hardship.

Iran's Premier Asks 'Hands Off' Their Oil Wangle

The Hague, The Netherlands, June 9 —(AP)—Mohammed Mossadegh, Iran's aged and emotional premier, pleaded with the world court today to keep hands off Iran's billion-dollar wrangle with Great Britain over vital oil production in his desert land.

Speaking at times with great agitation, Mossadegh accused Britain and the Anglo-Iranian Oil company of indulging in intrigue and corruption before finally appealing to the International Court of Justice for help after Iran has seized the rich oil properties developed by British capital.

Iran's action was taken as a "sovereign and free country," the premier asserted, and the court has no power to interfere as the British contend in arguing Iran violated international law. Mossadegh asked the justices to declare themselves incompetent to rule and leave the dispute where it is, no matter how unhappy either party might be.

Attorney General Sir Lionel Heald will present Britain's argument that the agreement between the Anglo-Iranian Oil company and the Iranian government actually amounted to a treaty and that Iran had promised to submit treaty disputes to the international court. What the justices will decide possibly may not be known until the end of July.

The court has no means of forcing a country to accept its decision.

NEED 800 POLICEMEN FOR CONVENTION DUTY
Chicago, June 9 —(AP)—The national political conventions will mean special assignments for more than 800 Chicago policemen.

Philip Breitake, deputy police commissioner, said today that 300 uniformed policemen will be assigned to posts within the International Amphitheatre during convention sessions. There also will be an undisclosed number of plain clothesmen in the hall.

Some 800 uniformed men will be assigned duties outside the Amphitheatre on routes between it and the loop, and as escorts.

CRIPPLED MAN DROWNS
Hecker, Ill., June 9 —(AP)—William C. Probst, 72, retired farmer who was crippled with a rheumatic condition in both legs, drowned yesterday when he fell into a pond at his home near Hecker.

Convention Delegates Call On Ike

New York, June 9 —(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sprang through a crowded calendar of visits with Republican convention delegates today, intent on charming some over to his side, and nailing down the ones already allotted to him.

In rapid succession, he met with groups from New Hampshire, Connecticut, Delaware and Massachusetts.

Out of a welter of reports by delegates of his conversations with them, these points emerged:

1. He said the demands of modern warfare on a military man may have broadened, and that they may therefore qualify him for an administrative position.

2. He recalled that a general's name had been placed in nomination at the GOP convention in 1948, without any public dissent by that general.

3. He said the Taft-Hartley Act was the "best law on the books," but asserted he would not oppose amending that act. He said he was against "punitive laws."

4. Eisenhower said he favors non-military trade between western Europe and the Iron Curtain countries, Rep. Christian Herter of Massachusetts told newsmen.

The question of the qualifications of a military man for president arose during the visit with the Connecticut delegation. Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former congresswoman, reported.

Gov. John Lodge, head of the Connecticut delegation quoted Eisenhower as saying that the qualifications of a military leader today qualify him for an administrative position.

Mrs. Luce said Eisenhower remarked that another general's name had been placed in nomination at the Republican convention in 1948. Eisenhower went on to say, Mrs. Luce added, that he did not recall any public statements from that general at the time, saying a general should not be president.

Reporters asked if she was referring to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, she replied: "His was the only general's name mentioned at the convention."

The remarks about the Taft-Hartley act were quoted by Clair J. Kiloran, chairman of the Delaware delegation. He did not elaborate on what he said were Eisenhower's comments about it.

Kiloran said Eisenhower told the group "our defense program should be in balance with our ability to support it." Federal expenditures can be reduced, Kiloran quoted the general as saying. Much of the conversation related to foreign affairs, and Eisenhower presented a graphic description of what's going on in Europe and in the Far East.

As each delegation came out of the house, Eisenhower appeared and posed for pictures with the leaders. Mrs. Eisenhower was with him. The general was all smiles and crackling with energy, as he shook hands and exchanged parting comments.

The schedule was so tight that some delegations almost trod on the heels of the one preceding. Mrs. Eisenhower entertained the Massachusetts group when it arrived before the Delaware visit had ended.

Reasons For Break
The break-up occurred over the amount of its retroactive effect, the extent of its retroactive effect, the union shop proposal and certain contract changes with the industry wanted incorporated in the new contracts.

The industry proposal was for contracts running until mid-1954, with a provision that wages could be renegotiated in mid-1953.

Truman's letter succeeded in inducing the Senate to delay consideration of pending labor legislation proposals until tomorrow. The president told the Senate it would be tragic if its action should wreck the promising steel peace talks.

WEATHER
The Norbury Sanatorium, cooperative observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, reported official temperatures Monday as follows: low, 65; at noon, 80; and at 6 p.m., 81.

FOOD PRICES ROSE IN MAY
Washington, June 9 —(AP)—The government estimated today that retail food prices rose 1.01 of one per cent between May 15 and May 26.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that prices for meats, poultry, frozen vegetables, cereals and bakery products and beverages averaged higher. Lower price averages were reported for fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, eggs, fats and oils, and dairy products.

CHURCHILL SPOILS BRITISH EFFORTS AT RECOVERY BY FAILURE TO ACT

One of the sadder aspects of the current world scene has been the failure of Winston Churchill's Conservative government to make any real headway against Britain's list of problems.

Dispatches from London paint a picture of gloom
among voters and high government and party officials alike. The recent sequence of Labor Party victories in local elections has done nothing to dispel the mood.

The London Economist one of several publications normally sympathetic to Churchill but now critical, recently summed up the situation:

"This is an indecisive government and indecisiveness is the one quality that could be fatal. . . . When one asks where the blame for lack of decision is to be found, the only possible answer is to point to 10 Downing Street."

Perhaps the most unusual thing is the readiness with which so many key Conservatives admit their failure. The tough British economic dilemma is really no nearer solution than when they took office last October.

Britain's problems are so deep-rooted that no sensible person looked for miracles. But seemingly there has been less action than under the often-bewildered Labor regime.

Britons today are debating whether Churchill is a suitable leader for these times. Apparently the personal methods of governing he used so well in World War II are not particularly adapted to the present tortured period of half war-half peace. The grand assurance he brought to Britain's war effort eludes him in today's tangle of troubles. Possibly his age—78—plays a part in this indecision.

It may be too early to pronounce a verdict upon Churchill, but some among his friendliest critics suggest that by nature he was meant for war leadership and not for peace. They argue that he is at home with the imperatives of war with blacks and whites, but not with the shades of gray which baffle the world statesman everywhere in 1952.

However this may be, Churchill obviously has no intention of calling a new election soon or even of handing over the reins to Foreign Secretary Eden, his most likely successor. Now and then a rumor bobs up that he might hold the premiership after Queen Elizabeth II is crowned next June.

The 1951 Conservative campaign sounded promising notes. There were to be a revitalized capitalism, with new stress on productivity and modernized plants, an easing of the austerity, the plague of controls that has crippled British life continuously since 1939 and a clearer, more courageous foreign policy flavored with the old Churchillian gusto.

Yet austerity is more firmly fastened on Britain than ever, and hardly a start has been made toward the other goals.

By his own word it was Churchill's dream to steer Britain to recovery and a sure peace. This achievement he would prize above all. But his country is growing restless at the halting steps thus far taken. Probably the venerable Conservative leader does not have too many months more to demonstrate his capacity for adventurous leadership through the complexities of semi-war. Voters in this age do not reside long with men who do not act.

WHY NOT UNIFORMS FOR POLITICIANS?

New York—(AP)—The trouble with aspirin tablets, and campaign leaflets, politicians today isn't that they all dress alike. It's that they all dress alike.

The average politician looks so much like any ordinary man you can't even tell he is running for office until he opens his mouth. Then too late.

Politicians need something to set them apart. Nothing sets a man apart like a uniform. So why not uniforms for politicians? Since everybody loves a uniform, who not also creates one for bureaucrats?
It would pep them up. Bureaucrats are getting the idea nobody really loves them anymore.

Many people in government life
now wear uniforms—such as policemen, firemen, members of the armed forces, garbage collectors and diplomats (readily identified by their Homburg hats and striped pants).
But if every public servant wore a uniform you could see at a glance what he was. You would also be impressed at how many of them there are.

Naturally you would have to have different uniforms to distinguish those elected to office and those appointed to their jobs.

All bureaucrats, for example,
be outfitted in neat white hair shirts and serviceable blue serge suits lined in the seat with a good grade of saddle leather. You can tell their rank by chevrons on their sleeves.
Just as you can now tell a corporal from a sergeant. To build pride of service each bureaucrat might be permitted to wear a stripe on his cuff for every three years he has been in his post.

Then you could look at his chevrons, count his stripes—and figure his salary.

To stamp him even clearer, each bureaucrat might wear a metal lapel emblem denoting his branch of government. For example, a minister of agriculture, a pine tree for the national park service, a pair of pliers for the labor department, a gilt dollar sign for the bureau of internal revenue.

Now let us consider a uniform for elected politicians. They present more of a problem. A politician wants to look impressive and well-dressed. But not too well-dressed.
Perhaps a return to the old Roman toga is called for. The toga is a simple classic garment, rich in dignity. Sew in a few inside pockets and provide the politician with a place to stow his car keys, cigars,

Hollywood—(NEA)—Exclusively yours: Mae West has finally found the movie script that will bring her back to the screen—"The Male Harem," by Jerry Adelstein. It's a story about a zippy British duchess who's captured by pirates in 1799, turns buccannier herself and captures the handsomest men who sail
the seas as her love prisoners. Wow!

Paramount and Irving Berlin are huddling about a film musical titled
"White Christmas," a repeat co-starring film for Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire, who clicked together in another Berlin musical, "Holiday Inn."

Cracking-voiced Joan Davis and radio comic Jim Backus are teaming up for a domestic-comedy telefilm series titled, "I Married Joan." But there are no plans for Joan's boy friend, Danny Elman, to be shouting the title.

Discounting marriage reports, Joan grinned: "After all, we've only been engaged five years."

Kathryn Grayson is hiding a romance with a famous Hollywood
name, who's absolutely free to pop
the marriage question. . . . Liz Scott will be the glamor girl in Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis' "Scared Stiff" now that the boys have kissed and made up with Producer Hal Wallis.
Paulette Goddard played the role in the original version with Bob Hope.
It was titled, "Ghost Breakers."

POOR SALESMANSHIP

"Movie time, U. S. A." is a great idea—but stars sent to the inter-lands aren't being given enough time to sell the idea that "movies are better than ever." That's the lament of Pat O'Brien, just back from a junket, who charged:

"The group I was with did 68
stands in six days. It was ridiculous.
We hardly had time to say 'Hello.'"

A unit publicity man was assigned at the last minute to accompany Marilyn Monroe to Niagara Falls for filming of "Niagara." His No. 1 job:
To keep the press AWAY from her except for scheduled interviews.

Rosetta Duncan of the famous stick. A scarred shoulder and silver plates from a football injury. . . . Suzan Cabot, who divorced her artist

theme. A movie magazine carries a layout on them being extra-nice to everybody under the heading, "How to Win Friends With Ava and Frankie."

Can't THAT singer now be called
"The Man of Extinction?"

Vic Damone and Joan Benny have a date in Europe. Pretty Joan, as good as engaged to Vic, was promised the trip last year by Papa Jack when she agreed to delay their mar-

Gary Cooper's been his silent self be told that his partner in his new independent film set-up will be Ermaybe more—Hemingway short stories against authentic back-

have to undergo surgery for his ul-

things."

Bob Mitchum ready to junk his movie career? The word's been

I can't quit. I need the dough."

It's a light comedy—his first—whispered. "I'm playing a country doctor—but it's fun."

Diplomats Suspect Adenauer Played Up Opposition To Get Best Possible Terms

Washington—(NEA)—American diplomats believe "Foxy Grandpa"
Konrad Adenauer, the West German Chancellor and Foreign Minister, may have deliberately played up some German opposition to the peace contract just signed in Bonn,
just to wangle the best possible terms
from Western powers.

Most of the opposition has been played up in the German press. The reason given for this is that the West German Republic has had no other media through which opinion could be expressed. West Germany has had no foreign diplomatic service—no ambassadors in Washington, London or Paris who could bargain directly with the U. S. Secretary of State and the foreign ministers. That might have eased tensions.

Furthermore, the full text of the peace contract and annexes were not made public prior to the signing.
Chancellor Adenauer did not let the German people in on what he was signing. There were some leaks through his cabinet. But much of the criticism was uninformed opposition from his political enemies.

While all this criticism, particularly from the Socialists, had a bad effect in Western Europe and America, the Russians also suffered some setbacks in trying to stop the peace contract.

Shooting up the French airliner and putting on temporary rail and highway blockades reacted badly
on the German people the Russians were trying to win over. Russian insistence that the Oder-Neisse river line was to be Germany's permanent eastern boundary angered
all Germans—East and West.

Finally, there is general German knowledge that Russia is the country the Germans have to fear most.
So there was never any real danger that the Germans would fall into a Russian propaganda booby trap and back on signing an alliance with the Western powers. But there will still be a big German parliamentary battle on ratification.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer got a letter the other day from a taxpaying citizen he had never met, sympathizing with his role in the recent steel seizure case.
"You were just like the cop who tried to stop a fight between a soldier and a marine," the letter

said. "As soon as the cop stepped in, both servicemen turned on him and beat him up."

Secretary Sawyer wrote back:
"The only difference between your cop and me was that he volunteered for his job. I was drafted."

Nehru Sentimental on Kashmir
The most common sense explanation yet on why India has refused to come to terms with Pakistan on the Kashmir dispute has just been advanced in Washington by Sir Olaf Caroe. He is a former British foreign secretary in India and ex-governor of India's Northwestern Frontier province. He is now on a lecture tour in this country.

Sir Olaf's reason on why the Kashmir dispute has been allowed to drag on for five years is based on the fact that Prime Minister Jaw-aharlal Nehru's family originally came from Kashmir. He is therefore extremely reluctant to see any part of his homeland annexed to Pakistan, either by force or popular election.

Nehru tells about his Kashmir
background in his autobiography.
Some 200 years ago an ancestor named Raj Kaul left the Kashmir mountains to seek fame and fortune on the plains below. He was a Sanskrit and Persian scholar, and soon attracted the Emperor's attention in Delhi. Raj Kaul was assigned a house on a canal, or "nahr." The name "Nehru" stemmed from that.

The family's connection with Delhi ended in the revolt of 1857. They moved to Allahabad, where Jawaharlal Nehru was born in 1889.

Railway Express Workers Feel Pinch
Railway Express Agency employees are beginning to feel the pinch of having to join a union under the new union shop contract negotiated for the entire system on April 1. All employees must join the union, whether they want to or not.

What gripes many of them are the initiation dues of $13 to $28 a member. Shop stewards get $3 to $4 of this, just for signing up the new members.

REA has 45,000 to 50,000 employees.
Under the old railway labor act,
the agency was barred from interfering in union membership. REA had no idea on how many of its employees belonged to unions. But an tween Jan. 1, 1951 and July 1, 1952,

and his pay was at the rate of $3,600
a year he could, by retiring after July 1, 1952, get $80 a month.

For this reason a lot of old people who might have retired sooner—but who then couldn't get more than $68.50—decided to keep on working until July 1.

All that's been said in this story so far applies only to people who have been employed by others in these past 18 months.

For the self-employed people there was a slightly different rule:
To be entitled to the full $80 a month, a self-employed person must keep on working till next Jan. 1.

He could get some pension if he retired before Jan. 1, but not that new maximum of $80.

1. For those on pension or going on pension before July 1, 1952 the minimum was raised to $20 and the maximum to around $68.50.

2. Those going on pension after July 1, 1952 would never receive less than $20 and could, if entitled to it, received as much as $80.

At the same time Congress laid down some rules for getting this $80
maximum:

If a person worked 18 months in a job covered by social security be-

Here we go again with the usual early summer crop of sun-worshipers who don't have enough sense to know when enough is enough.

Invariably, after the first sunny
Sunday or holiday of early summer,
a few shining lights appear in almost every office with bright red skins and blisters, showing their lack of good sense in exposing themselves to the sun the day before.

Notice, too, how often it is the same ones who burned themselves
the year before and ought to have known better, but just never seem to learn.

A severe sunburn is not only uncomfortable but can be dangerous.
Furthermore, sunburn is no aid to health. True, the sun's rays are necessary for the growth of plants and help in maintaining the health and well-being of human beings and animals.

One of the benefits which the sun
can give is to aid the human skin to produce a substance called vitamin D, which is necessary for complete good health and which prevents rickets in children.

A brown, tanned color is the result of the deposit of a pigment or coloring matter in the skin called melanin. This helps to protect the body against getting too much from the sun's rays. When the skin becomes pale it means that there is not much melanin present.

Melanin does not flow to the skin at once on exposure to sun, but takes time. A white skin, therefore, is not as well protected against the sun as it is when good tanning is present.

Until the skin is protected in this way it can be burned by the sun in almost exactly the same way that it can be burned by any other hot substance.

When the skin is burned by sun
the outer layers are killed and have to be replaced from the layers below. After a severe sunburn, for example, the outer layers are shed
in sheets and pull off.

The dead outer layers do not get any benefit from the sun and actually prevent some of the good which is desired.

Don't Sleep In Sun

People who are not accustomed to much sunlight and do not show tanning should be careful about the first few exposures. Falling asleep in the sun is particularly risky.

A number of ointments or lotions can be placed on the skin and will protect somewhat against rays of the sun and promote tanning rather than burning, but someone with a pale skin should not put too much reliance on them.

Green Beans In De Luxe Class

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor
Here's a way to lift green beans
into the de luxe class without expense or worry:

De Luxe Green Beans

(3 to 4 servings)

One package frozen green beans or 1 pound garden beans, cooked, 1 cup chopped onion, 1 cup sour cream.

Cook green beans and onions following directions on the package of beans or use cooked garden beans.
Drain, leaving small amount of liquid (about 2 tablespoons) on beans. Mix in sour cream and reheat.

A spinach souffle makes an ideal
one-dish luncheon.

Spinach Souffle

(Serves 6)

One cup cooked chopped spinach,
3 tablespoons butter or other fat, 3 tablespoons flour, 14 cups milk, 11 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, tabasco sauce, 3 eggs.

Wash the spinach well and cook it about 5 minutes in the water that clings to the leaves. Drain, and chop fine. Prepare a cream sauce of the fat, flour and milk. Add the spinach, salt, pepper, onion and a little tabasco sauce and mix well. Separate the eggs, beat yolks until light and lemon colored and whites until very dry. Add yolks to the spinach mixture, then fold in the well-beaten whites.

Put into a greased baking dish.
Place in a pan and surround with water. Bake in a very moderate oven (300 degrees F. to 325 degrees F.) for about one hour or until set. Serve at once.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Canned blended
orange and grapefruit juice, bacon omelet, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese, sour cream dressing, wholewheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, rhubarb sauce, peanut cookies, tea,
milk.

DINNER: Cold sliced ham,
spinach souffle, new potatoes,
seeded rolls, butter or fortified margarine, old-fashioned strawberry shortcake, coffee, milk.

Discuss Problem if Wife's Poor Housekeeping Disappoints You

A man asks me if there is anything a husband can do about the situation when his wife is such a poor housekeeper he is ashamed of his own home.

He has been married for five years and every year, he says, his wife's slovenly housekeeping gets more and more on his nerves.

Sure, there is something he can do. He can talk turkey. Instead of putting up with things as they are, or getting no place by making cracks about her housekeeping, he can sit down and discuss the situation like the serious one that it is.

Showing no bitterness or sarcasm or anger, he can tell her how disappointed he is in the kind of home they have.

He can try to find out what her problems are. Perhaps it isn't as much a question of not caring as not knowing how to keep house properly.

TELL HER YOU'LL PITCH IN AND HELP OUT

He can assure her that he'll pitch in and try to help her get things straightened out, if she will agree to keep them straight in the future.

He should remember that there is always the possibility that she doesn't fully realize how important it is to him that his home be well run.

There is also the possibility that he has in the past discouraged her by grousing about the things not done right, and never bothering to mention when she has worked hard to have their house the way he likes it.

If this husband will try to see things from his wife's point of view along with trying to make her see things from his, he may get some results.

He won't get any by silent disapproval or even by fault-finding.

Miss Lorena Spencer Becomes June Bride

Weds Richard R. Hansberger In Church Service

When Miss Mildred Lorena Spencer became the bride Sunday evening of Richard R. Hansberger she approached the altar of the beautifully decorated Methodist church in Roodhouse over a white carpeted aisle lined with satin bows and tall lighted white tapers. She was accompanied by her father who gave her in marriage. The altar was elaborately decorated with huge baskets of white gladioli, palms and ferns and lighted candelabra. Dr. Frank Marston officiated at the nuptials.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Spencer.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Hansberger, all of Roodhouse.

The organist, Mrs. Jill Roodhouse, accompanied the bride's cousin, Mrs. Charles Patis of Charleston who sang "Because," "Until," "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The matron of honor was Mrs. Frank Sanders; the two bridesmaids, Mrs. Laurence Robson, cousin of the bride and Miss Louise Rawlins. The ten year old niece of the bride, Patricia Jean Spencer, was flower girl and Jimmy Spencer, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Frank Hopkins served as best man. The two groomsmen were Charles Patis of Charleston and James Ransom. Ushers were Tom Rose of White Hall and James Ransom.

Wears Tulle and Chantilly Lace
The bride's gown was an elaborate creation of white nylon tulle and Chantilly lace over satin. Over a strapless formal with a Chantilly lace bodice and voluminous tulle skirt she wore a long-sleeved redingote of nylon tulle styled on Empire lines. The low-cut bodice revealed the lace of her foundation dress at the bust line. The full redingote skirt, open from the waist, was founced at either side to give a bouffant effect at the back. The tulle under skirt had appliqued lower's knots, graduating in size, over the full folds of tulle and the same design was repeated on the long Cathedral length train. A Chantilly lace Juliet cap held secure her long tulle veil. She carried gardenias encircled with stephanitis and bordered in white lace.

The matron of honor wore a yellow net sleeveless redingote over a strapless tulle gown, the redingote skirt achieving the bouffant lines as the bride's gown. She carried a cascade arrangement of orchid colored gladioli.

The two attendants wore lilac colored taffeta and net dresses styled the same as the matron of honor. Each carried peach colored gladioli in the form of a bouquet with braided satin and net forming handles.

The three attendants wore contour bow-shaped hats of net matching the shade of their gowns, the matron of honor having a shoulder length veil attached to her head-dress.

The little flower girl wore white taffeta and net, fashioned like the senior attendants. She carried a white crocheted basket of rose petals and wore a wristlet of pink carnations. The ring bearer, following the dress of the male members of the wedding party, wore long dark trousers and a white linen jacket with boutonniere.

The double wedding rings were carried on a personalized satin pillow with "Re and Dick" embroidered in blue and tied with ribbons.

Reception at Home
The bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home which was beautifully decorated throughout. The serving table was appointed in silver and crystal with pink, green and white color combination. Flowers, netting and candles were used in decorating. The tiered wedding cake held an exact replica of the entire wedding party in miniature even to the pastor. Assisting were Mrs. Marilyn Denny and Mrs. Joan McLamar.

For the wedding and reception the bride's mother wore aqua colored lace with white accessories. Mrs. Hansberger chose pink linen with chocolate brown accessories. Both wore waist corsages of white orchids.

When the newlyweds left for a honeymoon to Niagara Falls the bride wore a white with navy polka-dot nylon dress with white and navy accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return the couple will reside in Jacksonville.

The bride graduated from the Roodhouse high school and the School of Nursing, Kansas City General Hospital. She is night supervisor at the Passavant Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom also graduated from the Roodhouse high school, attended the U. of I. and Washington University and will be employed at the Farmer's State Bank in this city.

NAVY'S Got an 'INFANT-RY'

NOT ALL sailors at the Great Lakes, Ill., training station mean the same thing when they start talking about "pretty babes." If the sailors happen to be corpsmen at the base's dependency hospital, chances are they are discussing some of newborn infants placed in their special care. Since 1946, when the Navy adopted a policy of letting the corpsmen care for dependents of naval personnel, some 5,000 infants have been launched in the hospital. And, these corpsmen handle their human cargo with the efficiency of good sailors.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at Long's Pharmacy, 69 East Side Square.

Fort Leonard Wood Nine Plays Quincy Gems On June 12th

The Fort Leonard Wood Hilltoppers, one of the best service baseball teams in the nation will meet the Quincy Gems at Q Stadium in Quincy on Thursday, June 12th, at 8:00 p.m. CDS time.

The Hilltoppers have won 24 of 26 games and were victorious in 30 of 35 games played last year. Their lineup includes hard-hitting Don Dehike, Pittsburgh Pirates farm hand, and Preston Ward, former Chicago Cub first sacker, who is currently hitting for a .369 average with the Fort Wood team.

Catcher Sammy White of the Boston Red Sox, played three seasons for the University of Washington before signing with Seattle in 1949.

Rival Managers Respect 'Clubbin' Cub' Hank Sauer

By Jerry Liska
Chicago, June 9.—(P)—Dutch-tossing Charley Grimm gazed admiringly at the Chicago Cubs' Hank Sauer blasting away in batting practice and boomed at him.

"Herr Sauer, dots all I read you chust knuck der big bingles and across all der runs come yet."

The new boss of the Boston Braves then turned to baseball writers and seriously said: "I don't look for that big guy to tail off much. He's a solid hitter and he always finishes strong."

Grimm might be a little prejudiced over Sauer, pacing the National league in hitting with .347; in homers with 14; in RBIs with 54; and in hits with 66. Charley, as Cub vice-president, got Sauer and outfielder Frankie Baumholtz from the Cincinnati Reds for peanuts Lowrey and Harry Walker in 1949.

Other pilots like Leo Durocher of the New York Yankees and Charlie Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers admit they shudder lately everytime Sauer comes to bat, but they think it's just a hot streak.

GAME TODAY

Giants vs. Cubs (6:30 p.m.)
The Dodgers nipped the Cardinals 6-5 in a thrilling ball game to open the Jacksonville Elk sponsored Little League baseball season on the State Hospital diamond yesterday afternoon.

The winning "Bums" had to score a single run in the bottom half of the sixth inning to give pitcher Steve Hills the victory. Little League games are only of six-inning duration.

Hills didn't allow the Cardinals a single hit until the third inning. The Dodgers had meantime scored three runs and appeared to be on the way to an easy victory.

The Redbirds, however, came back to score three runs of their own in the fifth. These tallies, coupled with one run chased across the plate in the third, gave the Cardinals a 4-3 edge.

Hills socked his second home run of the game in the bottom of the fifth to account for two runs and give the Dodgers a 5-4 lead in the see-saw battle.

A revamped Cardinal batting order pushed a single run across in the top of the sixth but Crain's hit in the bottom of the third inning led to the Dodger's winning run.

Hills was the winning pitcher. The big boy went the distance and struck out 15 Cardinal batters.

Cade and Barber twirled for the Cardinals. About 200 fans watched the Little League debut.

Dodgers Sell Abrams To Reds

Cincinnati, June 9.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds yesterday bought Cal Abrams of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Abrams, a 28-year-old, left handed outfielder, was purchased by the Cincinnati club for an undisclosed amount of cash and for the contract of an as yet unnamed player owned by Cincinnati—probably a minor leaguer.

The Philadelphia born Abrams played in 67 games with the Dodgers last season and had a .280 batting average, 19 runs batted in, and three homers.

Betsy Rawls Wins Eastern Open

Reading, Pa., June 9.—(P)—Betsy Rawls, women's national open golf champion, won her third tournament yesterday by copping the 1952 Eastern open at the Berkshire Country club. Her 54-hole total was 226.

The Austin, Tex. pro finished two strokes ahead of Louise Suggs, of Carolton, Ga. Third was Patty Berg of Minneapolis with 228. Miss Berg had been an early leader in the tourney.

Miss Rawls won earlier tournaments at Houston and in the women's cross-country event. She is leading women's money winner with a total purse of $10,383.08, including yesterday's $875.

Ardmore Open To Dave Douglas

Ardmore, Okla., June 9.—(P)—Dave Douglas, of Newark, Del., only player to best part in the Ardmore open golf tournament, yesterday, pocketed $5,400 first-place money.

Douglas posted a one under par 279 total and was two strokes ahead of E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the host professional, who had 281 for second money of $1,800.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago romped home with a 69 after three rounds of 71 to pick up third money of $1,400.

League-Leading Brooklyns Whip Cardinals 6-2

St. Louis, June 9.—(P)—Eighth inning home run blasts by Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo, each with a man on base, broke open a tight duel between the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals here tonight and gave the league leaders their eighth straight victory by a 6 to 2 score. Relief pitcher Joe Black was the winner.

Going into the seventh inning, the Cardinals led, 2 to 0, on home runs by Stan Musial and Dick Sisler, both off Brooklyn's starting pitcher, Carl Erskine. The Dodgers, meanwhile, had been held to four hits by Cloyd Boyer.

Gil Hodges drew a pass to open the seventh and Furillo singled. A walk to Bobby Morgan filled the bases and when PeeWee Reese singled through the box two runs scored, tying the score. Al Brazie relieved Boyer and retired the side.

But Brazie ran into the same rough treatment in the eighth by walking Jackie Robinson. When Campanella homered the Dodgers were leading 4-2.

Brazie next walked Andy Pafko and was taken out of the box. His successor, Carl Grimm, got Hodges out on a pop fly but Furillo hit the ball into the left field stands for another two-run homer.

Reliever Joe Black allowed only two singles in his brilliant three-inning stint.

The Dodgers now have won 12 out of their last 13 games.

German Fighter Who Hit Referee Ousted From Ring

Cologne, Germany, June 9.—(P)—Peter Mueller, who once was stripped of his German middleweight title for hitting his opponent when he was down and only Saturday floored the referee of a championship bout, was looking for a new trade today.

His fighting days were finished by the League of Professional German Boxers after he sent Referee Max Pippow to the canvas with a sharp left to the jaw after the arbiter told him to stop talking during a championship bout against Hans Stretz.

The 24-year-old Mueller, who has lost several bouts on fouls, was behind on points in the eighth round when he started talking about the fight. Pippow told him to cut the chatter, whereupon he wheeled and clouted the referee.

The boxer's league confiscated Mueller's purse and a local newspaper said he was carted off to a psychiatric clinic for mental tests.

Stretz is the same fellow who was hit while he was down in their last title fight, thus ending the championship. He's still champion.

Local DeMolay Nine To Play In Macomb Meet

The DeMolay athletes would appreciate lots of support from Jacksonville fans.

How to Be Safe in the Water

FAN BREEZES

BY BOB MERRIS

Jacksonville's Little League baseball season was launched yesterday with all the pomp, ceremony and thrills of the big leagues. And, long as it would have been the youngster who didn't have one or two relatives watching him step through the paces.

Harry Dowland, exalted ruler of the Elks, gave a short speech of welcome preceding the opening game. Mayor Hoagland heaved the first ball of the season from the crowded officials' platform.

The game itself offered above par excitement. Tight pitching and daring baserunning caused the crowd to gasp more than once. Friends and neighbors became rivals for two hours when they learned that their kids were playing on opposite teams.

Boys selected to play in the four-team twilight league have been outfitted with new uniforms by the Elks. This fact, along with the fenced-in ball park and bleachers, lends more emphasis to the Little League baseball as an organized and closely supervised sport in Jacksonville.

Steve Hills of the Dodger team won two Little League baseballs when he slammed them over the 175 foot fence for home runs. League director Spike Wilson has ruled that boys who smack homers get to keep the ball.

But Wilson further stresses that he intends to take the emphasis off winning and direct the boys to play the game for the clean sport and wholesome recreation that it is. Every substitute on a team must be inserted into the lineup by at least the fourth inning of the six-inning contest.

Of course it's a lot more fun to be a winner than a loser. But the defeats are soon forgotten while victories are eagerly sought in a future and long remembered as part of the past. If the kids don't learn a lick of baseball this summer, they'll learn a little more about how to score in life.

The Red Cross-YMCA swimming lessons opened at Nichols Park Monday morning with a big splash. It was a splash made by 400 kids bounding into the pool during three separate hour-long periods. The five instructors on hand to give the lessons were kept plenty busy as they coached from 30 to 35 kids in each of the three classes.

Warren Flower, manager of the public pool, said yesterday that over 1,600 swimmers took a dip Sunday. That's a booming business.

Layne-Walcott Bout In Salt Lake In "Talk" Stage

Salt Lake City, June 9.—(P)—Marv Jensen, who manages young heavyweight Rex Layne, said today that the proposed Layne-Jersey Walcott championship fight in Salt Lake City "is a lot closer to reality than most anyone suspects."

"I have contacted Jim Norris, of the International Boxing club, and Felix Boocichio, manager of Walcott, and both are receptive to the Salt Lake proposition," Jensen declared.

"Norris was agreeable to the plan right away. There are two television dates open July 9 and 23."

Layne outpointed Jersey Joe over 10 rounds in November, 1950, in Madison Square Garden.

Indians Purchase Hank Majeski

Cleveland, June 9.—(P)—The Cleveland Indians bought veteran third baseman Hank Majeski from the Philadelphia Athletics today.

General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians said he thought Majeski fills a long-felt need for a right handed pinch hitter and additional bench strength. The amount of cash involved was not announced.

Majeski, who is 35, hit .285 for Philadelphia last year. His best year was 1948 when he hit .310 with the A's.

Majeski entered the big leagues with the Boston Braves in 1939, moved to the New York Yankees for a brief part of 1945, then joined the Athletics.

In 1950 he played a season for the Chicago White Sox, returning to the A's early in the 1951 season.

Lewis Elevator Drops 3-1 Game At Southside; Dixon's Nine Wins 9-7

The Litchfield Moose nipped Lewis Elevator 3-1 in the feature softball game at Nichols Park Sunday night.

Paul Blakeman, recently discharged from the Marine Corps, pitched for the Jacksonville Elevators and despite his claim of being out of condition looked pretty sharp.

Blakeman, who will return to his coaching duties at Chapin high school next fall, gave up only four hits to the Litchfield sluggers.

Jacksonville hitters collected five blows off Litchfield's Niphus but left many men stranded on the bases.

Jim Smarjeske blasted a triple and came home when an outfielder mishandled the ball for the only Elevator run of the game.

Hanable Dixon's nine whipped New Berlin 9-7 in the curtain raiser. Dixon and Stevenson handled the mound chores for the local club. Shadis went all the way for New Berlin.

Paul Fox smacked a home run in the first inning for the Dixons.

Illini Thinlies Eye NCAA Track Championship

Milwaukee, Wis., June 9.—(P)—Illinois, with an eager eye on the National Collegiate Athletic Association track meet on the west coast this weekend, warmed up Saturday by winning the 27th Central Collegiate Conference track and field championships in a big way.

Repeating their last year's 3-C victory, the Big Ten champs scored 70 points, the highest winning total since 1929, when Notre Dame scored 79 1/3 points. Illinois' coach, Leo Johnson, entered men in 13 of the 16 events, and the Illini collected points every one of the 13.

Far behind Illinois was second place Iowa with 41 points. Notre Dame finished third, even further back with 19.

Apparently preparing for this weekend's N.C.A.A. carnival, Johnson shook up his squad and did not enter athletes in the mile, two mile and javelin. He dropped his half-mile star, Stacey Siders, and Cicero McSween, the ace quarter-mile, one notch lower than their usual distances. But this failed to pay off in victories. Siders ran fifth in the 440, and McSween ran fifth in the 220.

The star of the meet was Ted Wheeler, Iowa's lanky Negro ace, the only competitor to break a meet record. He ran the half mile in 1:51.7, eclipsing the 14-year-old 1:52 mark set by John Woodruff of Pittsburgh. Newsman covering the meet voted Wheeler the John P. Nicholson trophy, given annually to the outstanding athlete.

Kid Gavilan Signs To Meet Unbeaten Turner

Philadelphia, June 9.—(P)—Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan today signed to defend his title against Philadelphia's unbeaten Gil Turner in a 15-rounder here July 7 that the promoter predicts will draw $350,000 without the benefit of television or radio receipts.

Promoter Herman Taylor, a bitter foe of television in boxing, said there will be absolutely no home television or radio broadcast of the 15-round title fight at Municipal Stadium on the eve of the major league baseball's All-Star game.

The promoter said there was a "very slim" chance he might relent and permit some 70 suitable equipped theaters telecast the fight, but only to points at least 90 miles from Philadelphia.

"Truthfully, I'm not even really interested in theater TV," Taylor added.

Taylor certainly has the attraction to test his theory about TV in boxing.

Gavilan, who has won 81 fights, the lost 12 and fought four draws in his 97 fights, will receive 37 1/2 per cent of the gate. Turner, unbeaten in 31 fights, including 25 by knockout or TKO, is in for 20 per cent of the take.

Position's Everything In Fishing
By Al McClane
Fishing Editor

Position may not be everything in life, but it can be everything in fishing.

When you're fly casting, for instance, it's easier to cast with the wind blowing across your body to your rear arm. In fact, this way the wind will keep the fly away from your face, neck and ears. What's more, the cross breeze will prevent the line from getting fouled around your rod tip.

Of course you can't always get favorable winds, but you can learn to cast with either hand. I did, and it's easy. You just know how the cast should be made, and there's no muscle memory or bad habits to break, so all you need is a little patience and practice.

No matter which quarter the wind comes from, then, you have the advantage. Remember those overhanging trees that caught all your back casts? When you can switch hands, that's another problem you'll have licked.

The bait-caster working around the lily pads handicaps himself when sitting down. In casting the pads, it's easier to stand up in the boat. From this position you can easily raise the rod overhead when you have hooked your fish and are involved in the task of getting him out.

Also, by standing up and holding your rod high you can reel your lure so that it keeps close to the surface. You can even reel a good-sized weedless spoon close to the surface so that a skittering or surface-ripppling effect is obtained. That is what you should strive for instead of just reeling the lure along underwater. Fish are attracted to the skittering.

Lewis Elevator Whips Greenfield In Shortened Tilt

GAMES TONIGHT
Lanes vs. Coca Cola (6 p.m.)
Samore vs. Rogerson Club (7:15 p.m.)
State Hospital vs. Dixon (8:30 p.m.)

Rain shortened the softball program at Nichols Park last night. Lewis Elevator clipped Greenfield 6-3 in the "A" league contest which was reverted back to the fifth inning when Greenfield didn't get to complete its bat in the sixth frame when the final downpour came.

Whitacre's second inning home run was the key blow in the "B" league contest which the Merchants won by a 4-3 count over the Cozy Dogs. The game lasted only four innings.

Ebenezer opened the junior league with a 13-4 triumph over United Surplus in the curtain-raiser.

Arrangements are almost completed for this weekend's Chicago Hot-Ten-Tots softball program. Murrayville has been selected out of the local league to duel the Tots Saturday night. The Cozy Dogs will play the Beardstown Merchants in the Saturday preliminary.

Jacksonville's House of Clay nine has been booked to meet the Hot-Ten-Tots in the big Sunday night game. No preliminary has been announced for this one.

Suspect Russian Chief On Tour To Supervise Purge

By the Associated Press

There is reason to suspect that Soviet Deputy Prime Minister Lavrenty Pavlovich Beria, head of the USSR secret police system, has made an extensive tour of the Soviet southeast to read the riot act and personally supervise a purge. In at least two southeast states—his own native Georgia and Kirgizia—he has left a wake of terrified Communist leaders. There have been accounts of this from time to time in Pravda, central organ of the Communist party.

Pravda has revealed that Beria was in Georgia in April. Last week Pravda disclosed a broad shakeup in Georgia, which is where Prime Minister Stalin was born. The secretary of the party central committee, K. N. Charkviani, was fired, and replaced by a comrade named Ghegadze. The prime minister of the Georgian republic, Z. N. Chkhviani, also was fired, and replaced by his former deputy, Z. Ketakhvili.

Joliet Convict Shinnies Up Pipe, Perches On Girder

Joliet, Ill., June 9.—(P)—A 25-year-old convict gave a fair imitation of a monkey today in the mess hall at Stateville prison.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen said the man, Michael Parille, serving 15 years to life, shinned 60 feet up a steam pipe during a breakfast period. Parille then climbed out on a girder under the hall's glass roof and said he intended to remain there.

Ragen said he was content to permit Parille to sit on his lofty perch awhile.

"I think he'll come down after the sun has been up a few hours," he said. "Men who've tried to work up there say it's much too hot for comfort under the roof on a warm, sunny day."

Asked why Parille decided to perch on the girder, Ragen said, "He's probably seeking publicity."

Parille was convicted of armed robbery in August, 1951, in Chicago.

ALL GRAINS ARE FIRM ON BOARD OF TRADE

Chicago, June 9.—(P)—All grains turned firm after a hesitant opening on the board of trade today. Rye and old crop soybeans set the pace as the market renewed the active, strong trade of late week.

Even wheat firmed in today's session, which contrasted with its easiness of last week. Corn became quite strong with distant deliveries up around 3 cents at times. Oats had much smaller gains.

Belief tomorrow's government crop report will reduce the rye estimate, an advance in bean oil prices, a pick-up in demand for cash corn from eastern sources and rather light hedging pressure in wheat combined to help the price structure.

Preliminary estimated receipts of grain in carlots: wheat 5, corn 204, oats 7, rye 2, barley 18 and soybeans 21.

Wheat closed 1-11 higher, July $2.33, corn 21-31 higher, July $1.84-1/2, oats 1-11 higher, July 77 1/2, rye 41-61 higher, July $2.15-$2.15 1/2, soybeans 1-31 higher, July $3.25, and lard 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $12.27.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Chicago, June 9.—(P)—Pork animals again were in high demand by outside order buyers today and prices moved steady to 50 cents higher. Sows showed to best advantage, although the market on all classes slowed its pace toward the close of trading.

Cattle were steady to 25 cents higher and sheep steady to 50 cents lower.

Shippers took 3,500 of the 11,000 hogs on sale, as good as or better than the rate of withdrawal for several weeks, now. Barrows and gilts sold from $19.50 to $21.75 and a top of $22.00 while sows brought $16.50 to $19.00.

Good to prime steers mainly made $30.00 to $35.25, one load getting up to $35.50. Good to low-prime heifers were worth $30.00 to $34.50 while three loads testing straight prime went on to $35.25 to $35.75. Cows topped at $26.00, sausage bulls at $28.00, beef bulls at $27.00, and vealers at $37.00.

Lower grades of spring lambs were on the off side, the rest of the market holding steady. Prime springers topped at $31.00, comparable old-crop lambs at $31.00, and slaughter ewes at $12.00.

Included in the day's run were an estimated 13,000 cattle, 500 calves, and 1,200 sheep.

Death in the Sierras
By Doris Hudson Moss
Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.—Copyright by Western Family

I DEKE ALVORD, city editor of the San Francisco Journal, rang for his society editor, which was me, at about 11 a. m. on Thursday, June 10.

"How'd you like a two-week rest, expenses paid, at Gold Lodge?" he asked in his crisp, booming voice. Before I could stammer a reply, he went on: "Here's a check to cover the trip. The quiet of the woods will do you good."

He never failed to astonish me. "I'll go with pleasure and thanks," I answered quickly.

He grinned and yanked open a top drawer of his desk and drew out a pistol. "Take this. A woman driving on a mountain road at night should be protected. You'll about make the high mountains by dark."

I laughed. "I'll take Susie. She's protection enough." Susie was my Belgian shepherd.

And so about 2:15 that afternoon we left the Bridge Toll Station, but at that moment a motorcycle officer came up beside me and motioned me to the side of the highway. He jotted down my license number and then said: "Where are you going?"

"Sacramento."

"Your name?"

"Rosemary Curtis."

He looked at me for a long moment. "Let me see your driver's license." I found it in my purse.

He scanned the license I gave him. "You look like a girl named Elsie Martinson. Ever hear of her?"

I shook my head.

"Okay. Have your brakes checked." And with another long look, he got on his motorcycle.

I had my car checked in Sacramento, where I ate dinner. The brakes were in good condition and so I set out for Gold Lake in the high Sierras early in the evening.

NIGHT came as Susie and I entered the pine-clad higher ranges. The road was deserted. Only one car had passed us and that was going in the other direction. I only saw that it was a green coupe, similar to mine, and driven by a woman.

Rounding a curve, I finally saw a feeble light hanging to a pole near a watering trough. Faintly I discerned a gasoline pump and my headlights shone on a sign: Horseshoe Springs.

I drew up and sounded the horn. A door opened a crack, sending a thin line of light across the dark earth. Someone peered out. "Who's there?" quavered the high-pitched voice of an old man.

"I'm a woman alone on my way to Gold Lake and I need some gasoline."

It seemed odd to find it necessary to explain myself. I was thankful for warm, furry Susie, who pressed guardingly against my shoulder.

Apparently reassured, the old man hobbled out, carrying an electric lantern.

He filled my tank. As I paid him he turned the light from the lantern upon me and as he counted and pan. I expected to find myself rolling into the canyon or with at least a broken axle but, oh, miracle, there was no metallic bumping and instead of sliding downward, the car was headed for the road.

My lights showed a black void to my left, evidently a great chasm or deep canyon.

I stepped on the gas once more, but as we bounded away I thought I saw a woman, wearing a long dark coat, standing by the roadside. It was but a flash but I was almost sure that a woman was really standing there by the road. But why?

I drove faster than good sense permitted and reached the closed gates of Gold Lodge at 9:15 o'clock.

I drew up and sounded my horn. A small building stood near the gates and its windows gleamed brightly with light. I found, afterwards, that it was the log-cabin home of the gatekeeper and was occupied by an old mountaineer, Jed Downey. He came out of the cabin and opened the squeaking, heavy log gates.

"Goin' up to the Lodge?"

"Yes," I answered. "I have made reservations there."

He stuck his bearded old face into the window of the car, hesitated a brief moment as he said, "Be there trouble up the road again?"

"Why—I'm not sure," I replied. I didn't like his manner and, somehow, I dreaded to speak of what had happened.

AND then as I shifted the car into high I saw a woman standing behind an out-cropping of granite, away from the sight of the gatekeeper. I looked back but she was gone. I wondered if she had slipped through the gate behind my car while the old man was talking and if she could be the same woman who had stood by the felled tree. But that seemed impossible since I was miles from that spot. She was probably a member of his family.

I followed a meadow road and in a few moments I stopped before the door of Gold Lodge.

The proprietors of the resort were a Mr. and Mrs. Rodney James. Mrs. James offered me a late supper.

Offensive Odors Are Cause Of Complaints Before City Council

Offensive odors which have pervaded the northeast section of the city several nights were discussed by the city council last night, while a large number of complaints by citizens continued to pour into police headquarters.

Councilmen said they have received complaints in person and by phone, protesting against the odors and asking relief.

Alderman Francis Allen of the first ward in bringing the matter before the council said the complaints have been directed toward the rendering works, in the northeast section of the city.

James R. Hildebrand, sanitarian of the city health department, told the council that "we should do something about this." He recommended that a survey be made, preferably by outside investigators, for a complete report to the council.

Both Aldermen Chumley and May joined in a quick protest against the city having to bear expense of such an investigation, taking a stand that the company or companies responsible for such conditions should correct them.

Alderman Brune of the health department went still further. He said if the plant is not working right "it should be shut down until it is."

Plant Official Speaks

At this point of the discussion Mayor Hoagland called on Jerome Cohen, a partner in the Jacksonville Reduction Company, to address the council. Cohen said he went to the council session when he was informed that there had been protests, and that the problem would be discussed.

Cohen said his company has been blamed frequently for situations which it does not create, and for which it is not responsible. He said the city dump, city disposal plants, and some other private sources often generate odors, which are erroneously laid to the reduction plant. However, he told the council his company is engaged in a business which does generate odors at times, and which is equipped to handle them as scientifically as possible.

Cohen asserted that there has been no mechanical difficulty at the plant. He pointed out that the company has been in business 52 years, and that its owners have always tried to cooperate with the city and public in an attempt to keep odors in the vicinity to a minimum.

Mayor Hoagland said the city has a definite responsibility to see that the rights of the city are protected. The conference ended with no definite action, but with councilmen insisting that the situation be improved, and the reduction company offering full cooperation to the city or visiting official groups.

Asks Change Of Zone

The council received a petition of R. H. Davidmeyer asking reclassification of lots 11, 12 and 13 in King, Dayton & Adams addition from Class A to Heavy Industrial. The lots are situated immediately north of the Wabash railroad between Sandy and Caldwell streets, the area to the west being in a Heavy Industrial area.

The petitioner explained that he proposes to use the lots for storage of gravel and crushed rock, and for construction of a railroad spur. The request was referred to the City Plan Commission.

City Clerk Phillips read a letter from John Waga asking refund of a filing fee for a petition of variance of the zoning ordinance. Waga explained that no action was taken on the petition, and that he has paid taxes for 12 years, "only to find that it was too small to build on due to the zoning ordinance."

Alderman Chumley moved, seconded by Alderman Brune, to instruct the city attorney to prepare an amendment to provide for refunds of filing fees where there is no publication on petitions for change of zone. The motion carried.

Urges Safety For Fourth

The clerk read a letter from Frank H. Woods, Jr., president of the Illinois Society for Prevention of Blindness, setting forth sections of the Illinois Anti-Fireworks Law, and urging strict compliance with the statutes in the interest of safety during the Fourth of July season.

A report of Ilma B. Cline, city treasurer, showed a balance of $1,991.67 in the general fund as of May 31.

Police Magistrate Alvarez submitted a report for May, during which his court handled 55 cases and collected $565 in fines.

The sum of $4,000 was transferred from the parking meter fund to the general fund on motions by Aldermen Baker and Chumley.

LEAVES FOR CUBA

Seaman John Six left recently for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, from the Naval supply center at Norfolk, Va. He had returned to Norfolk a short time ago, after spending a nine day leave here.

He is the son of Mrs. Edna Six, 744 S. Church street, and the late John S. Six. Entering the service June 1, 1951, he received his boot training at Great Lakes. He had been stationed at Norfolk since Nov. 15, 1951.

Riding And Diving Accidents, Fall Cause Injuries

Two local youths and a visitor from White Pigeon, Mich., received treatment for minor injuries incurred in three separate accidents Monday evening.

Jerry Pennell, 13, fell from a horse on a gravel road. A swimmer at the Nichols park pool dove onto the head of 16 year old Gary Zell. Homer Swartz, the Michigan man, dislocated his right shoulder in a fall.

Young Pennell suffered abrasions on the right side of his head and forearm. Arriving at Our Saviour's hospital at 6 p.m., he was treated by Dr. A. G. Wolfe. He returned to his home, 400 Walnut street, but will go back to the hospital Tuesday morning for X-rays of the skull.

The diver who hit Zell cut the boy's scalp with his teeth. Seven stitches were needed to close the wound. Dr. V. T. J. Lenth attended him when he came to Our Saviour's hospital at 7:30 p.m., and he returned to his home at 717 Pearl street.

Swartz was admitted to Passavant hospital at 9:15 p.m. and his shoulder injury was cared for by Dr. Thomas Auner. He had fallen down some steps. He stayed at the hospital overnight.

Hugh Green Speaks To Exchange Club About Legislature

Experiences in the state legislature and in political campaigns were related to the Exchange Club Monday evening by Hugh Green, local lawyer and state representative from the district which comprises Morgan and Sangamon counties. The meeting was held at the Dunlap hotel.

Green was introduced by Charles Waznar, who acted as program chairman. Partisan issues took up less than 5 per cent of the legislature's voting time in 1949, the speaker stated, and in 1951 the percentage was only 24. The greater part of the time members of the two parties lay aside their differences and concentrate on the public welfare.

Green is a Republican. "When I vote in these sessions," he said, "it's not my personal opinion that I'm expressing. My vote is governed primarily by the feelings of the people here at home. A lawyer puts the interests of his client first, and I consider myself a sort of attorney for the residents of this district."

Henry Busche was reinstated as a member of the club. During the meeting the Exchanges discussed their project for June, the handling of concessions at the stock car races on the fairgrounds.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tillery of Roodhouse are parents of a daughter weighing 7 lb. 3 oz., born at 5:02 p.m. Monday at Our Saviour's hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Akers of Roodhouse at 7:42 p.m. Monday at Our Saviour's hospital. She weighed 7 lb. 3 oz.

It is estimated that American Indians must have cultivated the corn plant for about 5,000 years.

Praise And Censure Listed In School Record Book

BY CECIL TENDICK

"The nearest no Teacher that has ever pretended to teach." This stern 10-word indictment is found in the old Reid's Seminary, later College Grove, "school record" now owned by Dennis Whalen of Rees Station.

The ledger-sized record, containing forms for recording all matters worthy of record, according to its publisher, Johnson & Bradford of Springfield is interesting. And it would have been downright valuable from a historical standpoint had more of the board secretaries kept it up.

The record contains a list of board members, receipts and expenditures, attendance of pupils, teachers and "remarks on condition of school."

Unfavorable Report E. M. Rees was the board secretary in 1888. He undoubtedly didn't think much of the winter session which opened on Oct. 5 and ended Jan. 27, 1888. Rees, practically self-educated, had returned to Morgan county only 12 years before effecting eight years in the California gold fields. The other two directors evidently agreed with the scathing appraisal of the teacher. At least they didn't protest.

Earlier entries by the directors ran from tolerant to kind. Examples: "At each time that I visited the school everything appeared to go off in perfect order and harmony"—James R. Spires, 1883.

"A visit by James L. Reed and the school doing well under the circumstances."

"The school was an interesting one and was as we believe calculated to advance and improve the minds of the children."—E. M. Rees.

Deserving Teacher Mary Givens had the summer session which followed on the heels of the "nearest no teacher" and the board evaluated her work this way—"believe the present Teacher used greater energy to advance the school than any Teacher than has ever taught in this district and is not only deserving of her salary, but the highest thanks of the patrons."

A couple of years later Rees and the other two directors fussed for three months trying to pick a new teacher. The other two got together and hired a man, over the secretary's protests. At the close of the year Rees observed, "The above Teacher was employed by the other two Directors without my consent. I do not know when he commenced nor how long he taught nor how much he was paid per month. None of the Directors ever visited the School, consequently there is no report of his government, except through the children and that was not very favorable."

Tiffs among the directors were uncommon, but a secretary of 1902 observed that "no business was accomplished due to the stubbornness of one man."

House Cost $925 Accounts of receipts and expenditures are interesting. The old Reid's Seminary building was built in 1868 at a total cost of $925.

Later the directors tendered a "contract to fence in the New School house" to J. W. Fanning. "Said Fanning to remove and use all of the old fence that is sound, the front fence is to be new material with good steps in front of the house for which the Directors agree to pay Sixty dollars."

"Also the said Fanning agrees to Dig a well and wall it up for one dollar per foot." Apparently he dug a 20 foot well, for later that year he received $80.

Now Some—Now Many School attendance was enough to drive a teacher crazy. For example, in 1864, the winter term opened on Oct. 9. Six boys and 10 girls were present. Total enrollment was 28 boys and 18 girls, with an average attendance of 23, 10/46. The term closed March 10. The teacher got $40 a month.

The summer school opened May 23 and ran through July 17. A total of 32 children were registered with an average attendance of 17. The teacher was paid $30 a month.

The levy for educational purposes for the year was $380.05. Both terms cost only $310.35, leaving a balance of $78.70.

The directors kept within the budget every year, and by 1876, built up a credit balance in excess of $1,000. That year they bought a bucket and dipper for 30c and let a high-powered salesman talk them out of $40 for a set of lightning rods.

Springfield Critic Enjoys Hilltop Players' Macbeth

By Benah M. McCaleb

The Illinois College Alumni association of Springfield last Saturday enjoyed the privilege of being the first group to see the Hilltop Players' production of Macbeth.

The play was presented following the regular meeting of the Springfield alumni, as a cooperative venture of Illinois college, the alumni group and the Springfield Theatre Guild.

Staged in the Guild's new playhouse, it received a warm reception from the alumni, theatre guild members and representative Springfield citizens who composed the audience. Comments heard from many others attending confirmed this reviewer's impression that the play was well cast and well acted. Special plaudits go to Dave Brick for his excellent performance as Macbeth. Donna Postlewaite as Lady Macbeth also did well in a difficult role, especially in the sleep-walking scene. The Springfieldians were of course especially interested in the good work done by their own Helen Sellers as Malcolm. The reviewer wishes to add a good word for the three "weird sisters" whose rhythmic incantations were most spine-chilling; and for a delightful Porter whose acting was one of the highlights of the show.

The fact that one of the "three witches" could more properly be called a "weird brother," and that some of the dauntless soldiers of the king would be eligible only in the WAC, should not cause concern when it is remembered that in Shakespeare's time all female roles were played by boys. The simple stage settings were also in the true Elizabethan tradition, but much enhanced by modern sound and lighting effects.

The audience realized soon after the curtain rose that a great deal of work had gone into the production and that it had been most ably directed. The Springfield alumni are proud that their Alma Mater could produce a play of such caliber; and also proud of students and directors willing to give the time and effort necessary to such an undertaking.

At least one member of the audience has now taken her "complete Shakespeare" from its dusty shelf and turned to page 922, to re-read Macbeth (after all, these many years) with a heightened sense of the magic that is Shakespeare.

This production will be presented at Ames Woodland stage on the Illinois College campus during the annual commencement activities. It will begin at 8:30 p.m. Friday, June 13. In case of rain the play will be given in the new gym.

'Prowl Car' Nabs Ex-Con, Friend, Teen-Age Girls

The sheriff's "prowl car" again proved its worth, according to statements made by a former burglar and his companion, who were picked up at midnight Saturday. Hitchhiking with them were two teenage girls.

They were arrested by Officers Mose Vicks and John Reeve near the subway on Route 36.

"We had 170 among us," said Herman Wells, 22, of Lawrenceville. "We were going to Indiana and naturally would have busted into something before we got there."

"What we'd liked best," Wells told sheriff officers, "would have been a kind-hearted motorist willing to pick us up."

Wells was released from Menard penitentiary only last March. He had been sent there from Mt. Carmel Wabash county, on an indeterminate sentence of probation and he served his full term, allowing for good behavior, of three years and nine months, sheriff officers said.

The girls said they were accompanying Wells and Brown upon the promise of marriage as soon as they got to Indiana. The men said they planned "to chuck them off before we got to the state line."

The girls were released Sunday to the custody of their parents. Deputy Orval Kelly of Roodhouse took Brown to Carrollton to be held for investigation of several burglaries in Greene county. Wells was sent to Lawrenceville.
